Introduction

Old Park Primary School and The Patch Day Nursery recognise that by efficiently managing its records, it will be able to comply with its legal and regulatory obligations and to contribute to the effective overall management of the school. Records provide evidence for demonstrating performance and accountability. This document provides the policy framework through which this effective management can be achieved. It covers:

- Scope
- Responsibilities
- Relationships with existing policies

Scope of the Policy

This policy applies to all records created, received or maintained by staff of the school in the course of carrying out the day to day operations of the school.

Records are defined as all those documents which facilitate the business carried out by the school and which are thereafter retained (for a set period) to provide evidence of its transactions and activities. These records may be created, received or maintained in hard copy or electronically.

A small percentage of the school records will be selected for permanent preservation as part of the institutions archives and for historical research. This should be done in conjunction with Sandwell MBC Archives Service.

Responsibilities

The school has a corporate responsibility to maintain its records and record keeping systems in accordance with the regulatory environment. The person with overall responsibility to this policy is the Headteacher.

The person responsible for records management in the school will give guidance for good records management practice and will promote compliance with this policy so that information will be retrieved easily, appropriately and in a timely way. They will also monitor compliance with this policy by surveying at least annually to check if records are securely stored and can be appropriately accessed.

Individual staff and employees must ensure that records for which they are responsible are accurate, and are maintained and disposed of in accordance with the school's records management guidelines.

Relationship with existing policies

This policy has been drawn up within the context of:

- Freedom of Information policy
- Data Protection policy
- and with other legislation or regulations (including audit, equal opportunities and ethics) affecting the school.

Pupil Records

These guidelines are intended to help provide consistency of practice in the way in which pupil records are managed. These will assist schools about how pupil records should be managed and what kind of information should be included in the file. It is hoped that the guidelines will develop further following suggestions and comments from those members of staff in schools who have the most contact with pupil records.

These guidelines apply to information created and stored in both physical and electronic format. These are only guidelines and have no legal status, if you are in doubt about whether a piece of information should be included on the file please contact the Local Authority.

Managing Pupil Records

The pupil record should be seen as the core record charting an individual pupil's progress through the Education System. The pupil record should accompany the pupil to every school they attend and should contain information that is accurate, objective and easy to access. These guidelines are based on the assumption that the pupil record is a principal record and that all information relating to the pupil will be found in the file (although it may spread across more than one file cover).

File covers for pupil records

It is strongly recommended that schools use a consistent file cover for the pupil record. This assists secondary schools to ensure consistency of practice when receiving records from a number of different primary schools. If, for example, primary schools have many different file covers for their files, the secondary school that the pupil files are transferred to will then be holding different levels of information for pupils coming from different primary schools.

Using pre-printed file ensures all the necessary information is collated and the record looks tidy, and reflects the fact that it is the principal record containing all the information about an individual child.

Recording Information

Pupils have a right of access to their educational record and so do their parents under the Education (Pupil Information) (England) Regulations 2005. Under the General Data Protection Regulation a pupil or their nominated representative has a right to see information held about them. This right exists until the point that the file is destroyed. Therefore, it is important to remember that all information should be accurately recorded, objective in nature and expressed in a professional manner.

Opening a file

These guidelines apply to information created and stored in both physical and electronic format.

The pupil record starts its life when a file is opened for each new pupil as they begin school. This is the file which will follow the pupil for the rest of his/her school career. If pre-printed file covers are not being used then the following information should appear on the front of the paper file:

- Surname
- Forename
- DOB
- Unique Pupil Number

The file cover should also contain a note of the date when the file was opened and the date when the file is closed if it is felt to be appropriate.

Inside the front cover the following information should be easily accessible:

- The name of the pupil's doctor
- Emergency contact details
- Gender
- Preferred name
- Position in family
- Ethnic origin
- Language of home (if other than English)
- Religion
- Any allergies or other medical conditions that it is important to be aware of
- Names of adults who hold parental responsibility with home address and telephone number (and any additional relevant carers and their relationship to the child)
- Name of the school, admission number and the date of admission and the date of leaving.
- Any other agency involvement e.g. speech and language therapist, paediatrician

It is essential that these files, which contain personal information, are managed against the information security guidelines also contained in this policy.

Items which should be included on the pupil record

- If the pupil has attended an early years setting, then the record of transfer should be included on the pupil file
- Admission form (application form)
- Privacy Notice [if these are issued annually only the most recent need be on the file]
- Photography Consents
- Years Record
- Annual Written Report to Parents
- National Curriculum and Religious Education Locally Agreed Syllabus Record Sheets
- Any information relating to a major incident involving the child (either an accident or other incident)
- Any reports written about the child
- Any information about a statement and support offered in relation to the statement
- Any relevant medical information (should be stored in the file in a sealed envelope clearly marked as such)
- Child protection reports/disclosures (should be stored in the file in a sealed envelope clearly marked as such)
- Any information relating to exclusions (fixed or permanent)
- Any correspondence with parents or outside agencies relating to major issues
- Details of any complaints made by the parents or the pupil

The following records should be stored separately to the pupil record as they are subject to shorter retention periods and if they are placed on the file then it will involve a lot of unnecessary weeding of the files before they are transferred on to another school.

- Absence notes
- Parental consent forms for trips/outings [in the event of a major incident all the parental consent forms should be retained with the incident report not in the pupil record]
- Correspondence with parents about minor issues
- Accident forms (these should be stored separately and retained on the school premises until their statutory retention period is reached. A copy could be placed on the pupil file in the event of a major incident)

Transferring the pupil record to secondary school

The pupil record should not be weeded before transfer to the secondary school unless any records with a short retention period have been placed in the file. It is important to remember that the information which may seem unnecessary to the person weeding the file may be a vital piece of information required at a later stage.

Primary schools do not need to keep copies of any records in the pupil record except if there is an ongoing legal action when the pupil leaves the school. Custody of and responsibility for the records passes to the school the pupil transfers to.

Files should not be sent by post unless absolutely necessary. If files are sent by post, they should be sent by registered post with an accompanying list of the files. The secondary school should sign a copy of the list to say that they have received the files and return that to the primary school. Where appropriate, records can be delivered by hand with signed confirmation for tracking and auditing purposes.

Electronic documents that relate to the pupil file also need to be transferred, or, if duplicated in a master paper file, destroyed.

Responsibility for the pupil record once the pupil leaves the school

The school which the pupil attended until statutory school leaving age is responsible for retaining the pupil record until the pupil reaches the age of 25 years. [See the retention schedule for further information].

Safe destruction of the pupil record

The pupil record should be disposed of in accordance with the safe disposal of records guidelines.

Transfer of a pupil record outside the EU area

If you are requested to transfer a pupil file outside the EU area because a pupil has moved into that area, please contact the Local Authority for further advice.

Storage of pupil records

All pupil records should be kept securely at all times. Paper records, for example, should be kept in lockable storage areas with restricted access, and the contents should be secure within the file. Equally, electronic records should have appropriate security. Access arrangements for pupil records should ensure that confidentiality is maintained whilst equally enabling information to be shared lawfully and appropriately, and to be accessible for those authorised to see it.

Safe disposal of records which have reached the end of their administrative life

Disposal of records that have reached the end of the minimum retention period allocated

Article 5e of the General Data Protection Regulation principles states that data should be:

kept in a form which permits identification of data subjects for no longer than is necessary for the purposes for which the personal data are processed;

In each organisation, local records managers must ensure that records that are no longer required for business use are reviewed as soon as possible under the criteria set out so that only the appropriate records are destroyed.

The local review will determine whether records are to be selected for permanent preservation, destroyed, digitised to an electronic format or retained by the organisation for research or litigation purposes.

Refer to the Retention Guidelines at the end of this policy.

Whatever decisions are made they need to be documented as part of the records management policy within the organisation.

Safe destruction of records

All records containing personal information, or sensitive policy information should be made either unreadable or unreconstructable.

- Paper records should be shredded using a cross-cutting shredder
- CDs / DVDs / Floppy Disks should be cut into pieces
- Audio / Video Tapes and Fax Rolls should be dismantled and shredded
- Hard Disks should be dismantled and sanded

Any other records should be bundled up and disposed of to a waste paper merchant or disposed of in other appropriate ways. Do not put records in with the regular waste or a skip unless there is no other alternative.

The school provides confidential waste bins and third-party service to ensure that records are disposed of in an appropriate way.

The third-party service provides records that waste documents have been destroyed using a Certificate of Destruction.

It is important to understand that if the records are recorded as to be destroyed but have not yet been destroyed and a request for the records has been received they MUST still be provided.

Where records are destroyed internally, the process must ensure that all records are recorded as authorised to be destroyed by a Senior Manager and the destruction recorded. Records should be shredded as soon as the record has been documented as being destroyed.

Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FoIA 2000)

The Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires the school to maintain a list of records which have been destroyed and who authorised their destruction.

Members of staff should record at least:

- File reference (or other unique identifier);
- File title (or brief description);
- Number of files and date range
- The name of the authorising officer
- Date action taken

Following this guidance will ensure that the school is compliant with General Data Protection Regulations and the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

Transfer of records to the Archives

Where records have been identified as being worthy of permanent preservation arrangements should be made to transfer the records to the Council Archives Service.

The school should contact the local record office if there is a requirement to permanently archive the records, and the records will continue to be managed via GDPR and the FoIA 2000.

If you would like to retain archive records in a special archive room in the school for use with pupils and parents please contact the local record office for specialist advice.

Transfer of information to other media

Where lengthy retention periods have been allocated to records, members of staff may wish to consider converting paper records to other media such as microform or digital media. The lifespan of the media and the ability to migrate data where necessary should always be considered.

Consideration should also be given to the legal admissibility of records that have been converted from paper to electronic media. It is essential to have procedures in place so that conversion is done in a standard way. This means that organisations can prove that the electronic version is a genuine original and could not have been tampered with in any way. Reference should be made to 'British Standard 10008:2008 'Evidential weight and legal admissibility of electronic information' when preparing such procedures.

Recording of all archiving, permanent destruction and digitisation of records

These records could be kept in a spreadsheet or other database format.

Digital Continuity

Statement of business purpose and statutory requirements for keeping records

Information assets collected and maintained by Old Park Primary School and The Patch Day Nursery are done so for the day to day running and functioning of the School and Nursery. Some of the data is statutory under the legislation mentioned in the Data Retention Schedule under the header “Statutory Provisions”. Under the General Data Protection Regulation the loss of personal data must be reported to the Information Commissioner’s Office within 72 hours of breach being discovered, and a record of the breach must be kept.

The statement should contain a description of the business purpose for the information assets and any statutory requirements including the retention period for the records. This should also include a brief description of the consequences of any loss of data.

By doing this the records owner will be able to show why and for how long the information assets needs to be kept. As digital continuity can be resource intensive, it is important that the resources are allocated to the information assets which require them.

Names of the people/functions responsible for long term data preservation

The Headteacher is responsible for long term data preservation and information assets, with the eLearning Manager taking day to day responsibility for making sure backups of the data are completed.

Description of when the record needs to be captured into the approved file formats

Any records kept may not need to be captured in to the approved file format at its creation. For example, a word processed document need not be converted to portable document format until it becomes semi-current. Once a document becomes semi-permanent, it is recommended that it be turned into a portable document format file. This format is the most supported format on all computing systems, and as such allows the document to be preserved longer than in a proprietary format.

Description of the appropriate supported file formats for long term preservation

Formats to be considered for long term preservation include the Open Document Format, as described by ISO/IEC 26300. These formats are the widest supported documentation formats across a variety of Office Suites. Office Open XML format, as described by ISO/IEC 29500 may also be used.

Retention of all software specification information and licence information

Where it is not possible for the data created by a bespoke computer system to be converted to the supported file formats, the system itself will need to be mothballed.

If this information is not retained it is possible that the data contained within the system may become inaccessible with the result that the data is unusable with all the ensuing consequences.

Description of how access to the information asset is to be managed within the data security protocols

Data held for long term preservation must be accessible when required but also must be protected against the school's standard information security requirements.. Records should only be accessible by those who are authorised to see it.

Appropriate Storage for Physical Records

Records must be stored in a way that does not cause a health and safety hazard. Records must not be stored in corridors or gangways and must not impede or block fire exits. There should be where appropriate, heat/smoke detectors connected to fire alarms, a sprinkler system and the required number of fire extinguishers. The area should be secured against intruders and have controlled access as far as possible to the working space.

Storage areas should be regularly monitored and checked for any damage or emerging risks, especially during holiday periods.

The following are hazards which need to be considered before approving areas where physical records can be stored.

Environmental Damage - Fire

Records can be damaged beyond repair by fire. Smoke and water damage will also occur to records which have been in a fire, although generally records damaged by smoke or water can be repaired.

Core records should be kept in cabinets or cupboards. Metal filing cabinets will usually suffice, but for important core records, fire proof cabinets may need to be considered. However, fireproof cabinets are expensive and very heavy so they should only be used in special circumstances.

Records which are stored on desks or in cupboards which do not have doors will suffer more damage than those which are stored in cupboards/cabinets which have close fitting doors.

Environmental Damage - Water

Records damaged by water can usually be repaired by a specialist document salvage company. The salvage process is expensive, therefore, records need to be protected against water damage where possible. Where flooding is involved the water may not always be clean and records could become contaminated as well as damaged.

Records should not be stored directly under water pipes or in places which are liable to flooding (either from excess rainfall or from the overflow of toilet cisterns). Records should be stored in cabinets/cupboards with tight fitting doors which provide protection from water ingress. Records stored on desks or in cabinets/cupboards without close fitting doors will suffer serious water damage.

Records should be stored at least 2 inches off the ground. Most office furniture stands 2 inches off the ground. Portable storage containers (i.e. boxes or individual filing drawers) should be raised off the ground by at least 2 inches. This is to ensure that in the case of a flood that records are protected against immediate flood damage.

Storage areas should be checked for possible damage after extreme weather to ensure no water ingress has occurred.

Environmental Damage - Sunlight

Records should not be stored in direct sunlight (e.g. in front of a window). Direct sunlight will cause records to fade and the direct heat causes paper to dry out and become brittle.

Environmental Damage – High Levels of Humidity

Records should not be stored in areas which are subject to high levels of humidity. Excess moisture in the air can result in mould forming on the records. Mould can be a hazard to human health and will damage records often beyond repair.

The temperature in record storage areas should not exceed 18oC and the relative humidity should be between 45% and 65%. Temperature and humidity should be regularly monitored and recorded. Storage areas should be checked for damage after extreme weather conditions to reduce the risk of mould growth.

Environmental Damage – Insect/Rodent Infestation

Records should not be stored in areas which are subject to insect infestation or which have a rodent problem (rats or mice).

Retention Guidelines

Purpose

Under the Freedom of Information Act 2000, schools are required to maintain a retention schedule listing the record series which the school creates in the course of its business. The retention schedule lays down the length of time which the record needs to be retained and the action which should be taken when it is of no further administrative use.

The retention schedule lays down the basis for normal processing under both the General Data Protection Regulation and the Freedom of Information Act 2000. Members of staff are expected to manage their current record keeping systems using the retention schedule and to take account of the different kinds of retention periods when they are creating new record keeping systems.

The retention schedule refers to record series regardless of the media in which they are stored.

Benefits of a Data Retention Schedule

There are a number of benefits which arise from the use of a complete retention schedule:

- Managing records against the retention schedule is deemed to be “normal processing” under the General Data Protection Regulation and the Freedom of Information Act 2000.
- Members of staff should be aware that once a Freedom of Information request is received or a legal hold imposed then records disposal relating to the request or legal hold must be stopped. Members of staff can be confident about safe disposal information at the appropriate time.
- Information which is subject to Freedom of Information and Data Protection legislation will be available when required. The school is not maintaining and storing information unnecessarily

Maintaining and amending the Retention Schedule

Where appropriate the retention schedule should be reviewed and amended to include any new record series created and remove any obsolete record series.

This retention schedule contains recommended retention periods for the different record series created and maintained by Old Park Primary School and The Patch Day Nursery in the course of their business. The schedule refers to all information regardless of the media in which it is stored.

Some of the retention periods are governed by statute. Others are guidelines following best practice. Every effort has been made to ensure that these retention periods are compliant with the requirements of the General Data Protection Regulation and the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

Managing record series using these retention guidelines will be deemed to be “normal processing” under the legislation mentioned above. If record series are to be kept for longer or shorter periods than laid out in this document the reasons for this need to be documented.

This schedule should be reviewed on a regular basis.
